GENERAL NOTES

• Oklahoma totaled 702 offensive yards (353 passing, 349 rushing), compiling at least 700 yards for the second time this season (702 vs. Kansas State). It tied the highest output since OU gained 785 yards at Oklahoma State in 2017 (span of 15 games), and marked the fourth time this season with more than 600 yards.

• The Sooners rushed for at least 300 yards and passed for at least 300 yards for the third straight week and fourth time this season (also: Florida Atlantic, Kansas State, Texas Tech). Prior to this season, the 300/300 feat had only been accomplished six times in school history.

• Today marked the 12th time Oklahoma has gained at least 700 total yards in its history, six of which have been since 2015 when Lincoln Riley began calling plays. Six of OU’s top seven single-game total offense figures since 2000 and eight of the top 10 overall have come since the start of the 2015 season.

• OU gained at least 500 yards of total offense for the 37th time in 50 games since the start of the 2015 season, and the 27th time in the last 34 outings. OU has topped the 600-yard mark on 19 occasions and gone over 700 yards six times.

• The 811 combined yards in the first 30 minutes (453 for Oklahoma, 358 for Oklahoma State) ranked as the second most in an FBS half this season. New Mexico and Incarnate Word combined for 843 yards (447 and 396, respectively) in their first half on Sept. 1.

• The 1,342 combined yards in the game (702 for Oklahoma, 640 for Oklahoma State) rank as the sixth most in OU history. It is the most since the Sooners and Texas Tech combined for 1,708 yards in 2016.
